DEBATE SERIES BEING PLANNED

Effort Being Made to Arrange Meeting Between James E. Watson and Champ Clark.

SPEAKER OF NATIONAL HOUSE

Debate Between Leading Representatives of Two Great Parties Would Furnish Campaign Material.

An effort is being made to arrange a series of debates between James E. Watson of this city and Champ Clark of Missouri, speaker of the national House of Representatives. It is believed that this series of speeches would attract nation-wide attention and would present the issue of the coming campaign from both the Democratic and Republican standpoints. Another series of debates—between the local statesman and Richard L. Metcalf, editor of William Jennings Bryan's "Commoner" may be arranged.

That James E. Watson is considered the best man in the United States to present the doctrines of Republicanism, there is no doubt and that Champ Clark is better prepared than any other Democrat to speak on the principles of the Democratic party there is no doubt also. Since Mr. Watson was "whip of the House" under Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, and therefore was recognized as the official and chosen advocate of President Taft's administration. For that reason, if for no other, Mr. Watson is well prepared to meet any prominent Democrat in the United States in a series of debates. Mr. Watson long has been considered as one of the best posted as well as the most eloquent Republicans in the United States and that he should be chosen from the long list of noted statesmen in the ranks of the Republican party, is also sufficient evidence that he is not only capable, but has long since proved himself to be so else he would not have been selected. Champ Clark is considered the most logical man to represent Democracy.

If the series of debates are arranged between the local statesman and the speaker of the House, they will probably be held in Kansas City, Missouri, Lincoln, Nebraska, Des Moines, Iowa, and Omaha, Nebraska. If the plans can be perfected it is likely that the debates will take place the latter part of October or the first of November. Such a series of speeches would doubtless attract people from all parts of the United States. The series may consist of four or even as many as seven debates.

It is planned to have two expert stenographers present at each debate, if they are held, and take a verbatim report of the speeches. The debates would be published in proper form and would no doubt become the campaign text books for every stump speaker and every voter until the issues of the campaign of 1912 were settled by the American people.

In the event that Champ Clark would not accept the proposition and Mr. Watson would be willing to agree to such a plan, a series of debates may be arranged between Mr. Watson and Richard L. Metcalf, editor of Bryan's paper. Mr. Metcalf would be a very able opponent as in the last two years he has ripened into a very eloquent speaker. It was the campaign for county option in Lincoln, Nebraska, that brought out his oratorical ability. Mr. Metcalf is an editor of twenty-five years' experience and is well versed in the principles and ideals of Democracy. Mr. Metcalf made a speech at Bryan's birthday anniversary dinner in Lincoln last March which caused him to be recognized as an orator of power.

In case the Clark-Watson series is arranged, it may be possible that the series between the editor and Mr. Matson might be arranged also. The last mentioned series would probably take place in western cities.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR HOGS

Shelby County Farmer Orders Twelve
Cars to Ship Porkers.

Very few men in any county ever have need to secure special trains on which to ship their hogs to market, but there is at least one resident of Shelby county, who finds it necessary to go to that expense occasionally. The man is former County Commissioner Henry Jones of near Waldron. He had the Big Four bring him a special train to that town yesterday and it was loaded with 750 head of hogs for shipment to the Indianapolis market last evening. They will be placed on the market there today. The porkers shipped by Mr. Jones will weigh on the average 250 pounds and should bring quite a snug little fortune at the present market price. The special train used by Mr. Jones is made up of twelve cars, caboose, engine and tender.

VOLLEY OF SHOT GREET'S ROBBER

Caught in Act of Entering Omer Green's Hen Coop, he is Fired On.

ESCAPES BUT IS WOUNDED

It would be a safe wager that someone in the vicinity of Omer Green's home, west of the city is suffering some little discomfort as the result of a raid on Mr. Green's hen coop Tuesday night. The thief was discovered in the act of entering the chicken house and was surprised with a volley from the good shotgun. The robber was seen to fall to his knees and then stagger away so it is known that some of the shot hit him. The robber was wise enough to make the attempt early in the evening before the members of the Green family had gone to bed and before the moon had risen in the heavens. The robber was foiled in his attempt as no chickens are missing. He is believed to be a neighbor of the Greens.

LARGE CROWD TO GO ON BOOSTER TRAIN

Special Will Leave For Greensburg
at 7 O'clock Regardless of Weather Conditions.

LEAVES THERE AT 11 O'CLOCK

The Booster Special will leave this evening promptly at 7 o'clock and from all indications a large crowd will make the trip. Returning the special will leave Greensburg at 11 o'clock. The rain of this morning will not interfere with the plans and the promoters are very optimistic as to the success of the trip. The Rushville band will head the big parade in Greensburg and the red fire will be distributed on the train. Many Rushville people have visited Greensburg this week and all are high in their praise for the entertainment being given there. They say that the streets of that city resemble those of Rushville when this city had carnivals of eight and ten years ago. Every available space is taken and the attractions are said to be all high class.

RUNAWAY BOY LOCATED HERE

David Shroyer, 15 Years Old of Near Urbana, Ill., Left Home, Coming to This City.

FOUND BY A MERE ACCIDENT

Desired to Make His Own Way in the World—Was Employed at Local Factory.

Rushville has been harboring a runaway boy since last Saturday evening but the fact was not known until last night, and then it was by merely an accident that he was found. The circumstance surrounding the case and the peculiar manner in which he was found are really remarkable and it is doubtful if there is another case on record of its kind.

Last Sunday evening Chief of Police T. E. McAllister received a telegram from Fred Schroyer of Urbana, Ill., asking him to be on the lookout for his son David, who had left his home. A description of the boy was given but Chief McAllister expressed little hope in ever locating the boy here as it was not known that he came here and notices of this kind are received almost every day. Nothing was seen of the missing boy after a thorough search and the telegram was almost forgotten in the rush of other police duties.

Fred Schroyer, the boy's father, came here last night and was met by Chief McAllister, who informed him that nothing had been seen of his son. Mr. Schroyer said he had sent telegrams to all parts of the country and his only reason for coming here was to satisfy the boy's mother, who was grief stricken. He decided to go on to Connersville after spending the night here and before retiring took a walk with Chief McAllister.

While passing the Felts pool room in Second street, Mr. Schroyer stated that his son was very fond of watching the boys play pool and at the suggestion of Mr. McAllister, they entered the pool room and walked toward the rear. When in the center of the room, Mr. Schroyer stopped suddenly and exclaimed, "Why, there's my son! Dave, my boy, how are you?" "Hello, Dad, glad to see you," replied the boy and then they embraced. The father was so glad

TAKES LAW IN HIS OWN HANDS

James Meal, Rush County Farmer, Leads Alleged Thief to Shelby-ville and Files Affidavit.

CHARGES THE THEFT OF A HOG

George Mason, Who is Arrested,
Pleads Not Guilty and is Bound
Over to Grand Jury.

James Meal, a prominent farmer of Rush county, living in the vicinity of St. Paul, took the law into his own hands Wednesday afternoon, says the Shelbyville Democrat and brought George Mason, a young man living near St. Paul, to this city, where he turned him over to the proper authorities and then proceeded to file an affidavit in the court of Justice Webb charging the young man with stealing a hog from the Meal farm. The warrant was promptly issued by Justice Webb and was served at once.

Mason pleaded not guilty, but waived preliminary hearing and allowed himself to be bound over to the circuit court to await the action of the grand jury in the case. His bond was placed at $100 and he was released within a few minutes as Justice Thaddeus Lewis of Waldron signed the bond.

Mr. Meal says the hog disappeared from his farm some time last Thursday night. He charged Mason and two of his companions with being responsible for its disappearance, but the names of the two other young men were not made public yesterday. Warrants for their arrest were issued at once and Deputy Sheriff Terry was dispatched to the St. Paul vicinity on one of the late afternoon cars to apprehend them if possible.

Mr. Meal seems to be positive in regard to the allegations against the young men, as he says they sold the hog to a stock dealer at St. Paul of the name of Favors. He had fortified himself pretty well with evidence before taking young Mason in charge to bring him to this city.

GIRL IS STILL MISSING

Parents Have no Trace of Mariam
Dailey, Related Here.

No trace, according to Indianapolis newspapers, has been found of Miss Mariam Dailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dailey of Indianapolis, who disappeared from her home on Tuesday evening. Her parents believe that she has eloped and they are satisfied that she had planned her departure for some time as she could not have slipped out had she acted on a moment's notice. The Indianapolis papers say that she carried two suit cases, one being marked H. R. Dailey, which her parents believe may lead to her detection.

BOLT HITS BARN OF LUTHER CALDWELL

Estimates His Loss at $200 Which is Only Partially Covered by Insurance.

BURNS FARM IMPLEMENTS

During the storm which passed over this county this morning, a large barn on the farm of Luther Caldwell, about four miles west of the city, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. The loss is estimated at $2,000 and is only partially covered by insurance. The barn contained a large amount of hay and a number of farm implements which had been stored for the winter. The lightning struck a corner of the barn and in a few minutes the whole building was in flames. There was no stock in the barn and Mr. Caldwell succeeded in getting out only a small portion of his implements. John Hiner, rural route carrier, was passing the Caldwell farm at the time and saw the lightning hit the barn.

THIRTEEN HAS NO TERRORS FOR HIM

George W. Hilligoss, Native of Rush
County, Born on Friday 13th, Enjoys Birthday.

IS 13TH CHILD IN THE FAMILY

Friday, the thirteenth, has no terror for George W. Hilligoss, one of this city's prominent and most highly respected residents, says the Shelbyville Democrat, for he was born on Friday, September 13, 1836. But that was not the only "13" that appeared on his astrological chart as he was the thirteenth child born to his parents.

Despite the supposed heavy handicap of "13" Mr. Hilligoss is still alive and happy, and thoroughly enjoyed the seventy-fifth milestone Wednesday in the journey of life.

He was born in Rush county, east of Homer, where the old Hilligoss homestead still stands. In early life he became a farmer, but moved to Shelbyville thirty-three years ago. He saw that Shelbyville was a growing town and that there was an opening for the drayage business. In partnership with his oldest son Lauren, he engaged in this business, to which afterwards was added coal and cement, until at the present time it is one of the most extensive in southern Indiana.

There were 186,917 negro soldiers in the northern army in the civil war.

HORSE SHOW TO BE HELD AS USUAL

Officials Say Annual Fall Event is Assured by Amount of Money Already Subscribed.

BUT LARGER FUND IS NEEDED

In Order to Make it a Big Success
More is Necessary—Superintendents Are Appointed.

Indications are that the coming fall horse show will be far better than any previous one. Committees who are raising the funds with which to conduct the show report excellent success and say that the amount subscribed this year will be larger than it has been before. The amount raised so far is not as large as that of last year, but the prospects are that it will be increased materially in the next few days.

Although there is enough money in sight to give the show the officials of the organization say that it will be necessary to have more money to make it the success that it should be. In order to have a well arranged premium list and additional funds to obtain free attractions much more money than that spent last year will be needed. It is hoped that enough will be subscribed so that it will be possible to have a program in the evening so that people will be attracted here at that time.

Superintendents have been appointed for the coming event and are as follows: Will L. Brown, heavy draft horses; William J. Pierson, mules; O. E. Hume, general purpose; Willard H. Amos, light harness; Ben Hume, ponies, and L. B. Harris, marshal.

It is the hope of the officers to bring many good horses, mules and ponies for every class here this year so that the competition will be keen. The more entries there are the better the show will be and without attractive premiums and many classes the horses will not be entered.

Any stallion or jack owners in the county are allowed to give special premiums if they desire. The only request the horse show officials make is that they be notified of the fact by next Tuesday.

The horse show will be held Wednesday and Thursday, October 19 and 20, instead of the dates announced yesterday, an error being made at that time. On Saturday following the horse show the first of a series of big combination sales will be held at the Davis sale barn.

FIRST PUSHOMOBILE HERE

Unique Plaything For Youngster Appears on the Streets.

The pushomobile craze has struck Rushville. One of the newly invented playthings for boys was on the streets for the first time today. The contraption is a rather unique affair and is calculated to please the youngsters better than any recent invention of a fertile brain. The pushomobile appears to be a diminutive automobile so well it is copied after a machine. It has the regular hood, steering gear and really lacks nothing but an engine. A long pole is attached to the back end which provides a means for pushing it. While one boy pushes, the other rides in the seat and steers it. Denny Ryan purchased one for his two small boys and they treated all of their friends to a ride.

There's always some hope for a fellow with a saving sense of humor.

Daffydil Doings Down In Dippy Dell

Charles Stiffler, cashier for the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Company, was walking near the opening to a desolate alley in Main street one bright and beautiful day with a cool million which the traction company had taken from its passengers. Charles was in a happy mood, in fact so happy that he was humming a merry tune. He had had a dream about a train robbery the night before and he recalled that fantastic tale of the night before just as he crossed the alley. No sooner had the thought entered his grey matter than two masked bandits appeared in front of him. He didn't know, he supposed they came from the alley. The sun glistened on their gun barrels as they leveled them at Charlie's head and ordered him to place his mits over his head. Charlie complied, as any well regulated cashier would do under the same circumstances. The cash being in Charlie's hands, and his hands above his head it was a problem for the robbers to get that which they sought. One of them rushed into John Kelley's grocery store and returned with a step ladder. He climbed up to the top of it and still he couldn't reach the mazzuma. The thief had just started after an extension to the ladder when Albert Bright aviated up and sweetly exclaimed, "If Fred Dagler broke a colt, would Jack Driv-er?"

We know him, Officer. He takes our paper.

Luckily the ladies were not hurt but badly frightened.

LAWS CONFLICT SAYS DR. HURTY

Official Declares Statutes Must be Clarified Before Public Health Work Will Advance.

THEY HAMPER HEALTH BOARD

Secretary Points Out That Bad Conditions Are Shown by State Board of Accounts.

Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the State Board of Health, believes the laws must be clarified before the public health work of the state can advance properly.

"The work of the board of accounts has disclosed, more than anything else in the history of public health work, the wretchedly loose and unscientific way we have put our laws together," said Dr. Hurty. "As a result, township trustees, county councils and boards of county commissioners fear to make use of public moneys necessary to carry on public health work, no matter how much they may be in favor of advancing it. They have many times in the past acted on the advice of county attorneys in spending money, only to find the state board of accounts takes a different view of the law and charges back to the officials sundry moneys paid. Consequently the officials do not know which way to turn.

"Things will not be any better, in my belief, until the state laws are codified and the conflicting statutes erased and perfectly plain statutes enacted in their stead. The condition is not restricted to public health matters alone, I am told, but, to other departments as well.

"We have on our statute books too many laws framed to fit certain conditions. I recall that a member of the general assembly came here once and got a change in the law governing coroners which upset the entire system, but relieved a peculiar condition in the representative's own county. Another representative almost overturned the entire public health law because he was incensed at a public health officer who had caused him to pay a fine. Just such conditions have resulted in frequent changes in laws which have brought about conflicts. Until the state board of accounts began its work, we did not realize these conflicts and went about our business as best we knew. If the operations of the board result only in a codification of the laws, its existence and expense will be worth while."

CENTRAL ILLINOIS IS STORM SWEEPED

Great Damage Done to Corn Fields and Orchards.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 14.—One succeeding the other in rapid succession and each stronger than the one before, Springfield was badly damaged by windstorms.

The streets were left impassable, being obstructed by thousands of fallen trees. The beauty of the city lay largely in its trees. Many plate glass windows were blown in, and cellars and streets flooded, trolley wires all over the city down and the streetcar service at a standstill. The copper roof of the dome of the statehouse was torn off. No loss of life has been reported either in the city or vicinity.

From railway reports the storm swept over the entire central section of Illinois, wrecking buildings and damaging the fruit crop. Telephone and telegraph wires are down in every direction.

Passengers arriving on trains from St. Louis say cornfields are laid flat across the state. Orchards—the pear and apple crops—suffered immense damage. One farmer who had a promising sixty-acre orchard says his trees have not ten bushels of fruit on them.

Some men enjoy quite a long interval during which they are old enough to know better, but not old enough to let that circumstance make any difference.—Puck.

MANY VARIETIES TO BE DISPLAYED

Forty-Six Different Specimens of Apples Are Admitted to Indiana Show.

TO BE HELD IN INDIANAPOLIS

Exhibit Will be Practical School of Instruction to Orchardist—Demonstrations on Program.

Practically every variety of apples grown in Hoosier orchards will have a place in the apple show in Indianapolis Nov. 6 to 11. Prizes are to be awarded on plates, trays, boxes and barrels of fruit, as well as on orchard collections, the premium list offering growers an opportunity to make as large displays as they desire.

The cash premium in the plate class are $1.50 for each variety, with no second prize, the highest award in this class being $5, with $2 for second, going to the best plates shown. The prizes in the tray classes are more liberal, being $5 for each winning tray, with $2 for second prize.

The promoters of the show are endeavoring to have a very extensive show of trays, rather than plates of apples, for trays will not only make a very attractive display, but they will give growers better opportunities for grading their fruit to size and color than will the plate classes.

Forty-six varieties of apples are eligible to the plate and tray classes, as follows: Aiken, Baldwin, Ben Davis, English russet, Fallawater, Fameuse, Grimes, Hubbardston, Indiana Favorite, Rawle's Janet, Jonathan, King, Maiden Blush, Mann, Moore sweet, Northern Spy, Northwestern Greening, Rhode Island Greening, Pewaukee, Rambo, Roman Stem, Rome Beauty, Salome, Smith cider, Stark, Stayman winesap, Twenty-ounce, Wagener, Wealthy, White pippin, Willow Twig, Winesap, Wolf River, York, Imperial, Yellow Bellflower, Vandevere.

Each plate must show five specimens. The show management has adopted a standard size of tray, the inside dimensions being 11 1/2 x 18 inches, and exhibitors will be supplied with trays, as well as boxes, if they will as soon as possible notify W. B. Flick, of Lawrence, as to their probable requirements. It is suggested that exhibitors set up frames of the standard size and practice the different styles of packing that they may prepare their show trays attractively.

The same method of placing apples in trays is to be followed as in packing a box. A tray will consist of a face layer of a bushel box, and exhibitors bitors will find, when the ribbons are awarded at the Indiana show, that it is to their advantage to grade the fruit carefully as to size and color. The Indiana show is to be a practical school of instruction for Hoosier orchardists, as well as a show of apples for the public. Talks and demonstrations will be given every day for exhibitors to the end of making Indiana a greater producer of high grade apples than it has ever been in the past.

 * CONNERSVILLE FREE FAIR * GIVEN MUCH PROMINENCE. *****

Through the influence of a prominent local citizen, who does not care to have his name appear in print in this connection, the Fayette county Free Fair has been given special publicity in Collier's Weekly, a journal that has an assured circulation exceeding six hundred thousand copies,
says the Connersville News.

Collier's devote about half a page
to the Free Fair chiefly in illustration. It contains a handsomely printed picture from a photograph of the hillside crowded with people with a large, inflated balloon to the right bearing a streamer reading "Con-nersville Free Fair" in large letters.
The photograph was taken some years ago and before the amphitheater was built. In the foreground are the late Francis T. Roots, with other representative Free Fair leaders about him and all are readily recog-

Below this is a picture showing the amphitheater. This picture was taken last year, when the fair was at its height and a large throng within and without the new structure.

Under the caption—A successful county fair to which admission is free, Collier's says:

After several disastrous attempts to conduct a county fair on old lines,
the little city of Connersville, Indiana, was offered a large park providing no gate fee should be charged.
The city council appropriated for a track around which nature built an amphitheater. The revenue collected from vendors was devoted to expenses. It has never had a deficit in its financial reports.

Beneath the picture of the new amphitheatre or grand stand is the following comment:

A $7,000 grand stand was built by citizens and a large space was provided for free fair bleachers.

The fair is now an assured success
from every point of view and is visited annually by more than twice the entire population of the county.

LABOR LEADERS IN BAD AT BUTLER, PA

They are Charged With Recent Dynamiting.

Butler, Pa., Sept. 14.—The grand jury which made a special investigation into dynamiting outrages and other acts of violence along the line of the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle Railway company, made its report to Judge Galbreath and recommended that indictments be brought against twenty labor leaders and former employees of the company.
Among those named by the grand jury against whom indictments should be brought are J. J. Thorpe of Pittsburgh, international vice president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railroad Employees, and C. A. Betts, president of the Harmony local union of the association.

After the presentment had been made the district attorney brought a bill of indictment and passed it to the grand jury. The grand jury acted immediately and indictments were returned, the men named being charged with conspiracy for dynamiting cars,
and other acts.

New York, Sept. 14.—Although mak-

plea, Judge Hough let Frank J. Gould off with a fine of $1,000 when the millionaire pleaded nolo contendere to the indictment charging him with participa-

Hough accepted the plea, he explained,
because so many of the other indicted
men had escaped on similar pleas

TELLS TALE OF GARY'S SHAME

Councilman Baukus Takes an Immunity Bath.

OTHERS GOING TO DO LIKEWISE

It is Intimated That Several of the Officials of the Steel City Arrested on Charges of Accepting Bribes Are Willing to Take Refuge by Turning State's Evidence and Giving Up the Whole Sordid Story.

Gary, Ind., Sept. 14.—Arrested a few days ago on a charge of soliciting
and accepting a bribe from Thomas B.
Dean, the detective, who was here pretending to be after a heating franchise, Councilman Antony Baukus has confessed his part in the transaction wherein Dean paid money to members of the council for the passage of the ordinance. Three others are ready to talk.

A meeting of these four was held and it was agreed between them that they would all turn state's evidence and tell how much money they received and who paid it to them. Baukus beat the others to it, rushing in with a confession first.

It is reported that Baukus, in his confession, said that he saw Dean for the first time about three months ago,
when Dean visited Baukus's saloon.
They had a long talk about the ordinance for the heating plant, a copy of which Dean had with him, and Dean asked Baukus if he would be willing to take a present of $500 extra besides his salary.

At another meeting in the Gary hotel
he confesses he figured with Dean how much the other members of the council ought to have, and Baukus said that he was promised $1,500 for his share, and that at Dean's suggestion they went to Chicago and put the money in a safety deposit box. Baukus says he kept one key for the box and Dean the other, that there was an agreement between them that the money would not be paid over to Baukus until the ordinance was passed and signed by Mayor Knotts.

The money was put in an envelope
in Chicago and marked "Contract."
Dean signed his name on the envelope and Baukus signed it. Baukus, in his confession, said that he asked Dean
how much money he had to pay Tom Knotts and Dean said he would pay him $5,000 to sign the ordinance.
Baukus says that the total amount of money he was to get was $1,500, but in the final check he accepted $1,000 and that this money is still in the safety deposit box in Chicago.

Baukus also says Dean gave him the names of other members of the council to whom he had promised to pay bribe money and for whom the money was placed in the deposit box at Chicago.

Deputy Sheriffs from Crown Point have reached Gary with a warrant for the arrest of John J. Nihoff, former member of the board of public works.
Mr. Nihoff is in Chicago and will be arrested on his return to this city.

MORE INCENDIARISM

Third Fire in as Many Weeks at Strawboard Works.

Noblesville, Ind., Sept. 14.—The third fire of incendiary origin which the American Strawboard company has had within a few weeks resulted in the large barns of the company being destroyed. Several horses and mules, a large quantity of feed, twenty-five sets of harness and many wagons and buggies were burned.

Night Watchman William Raugh
had just passed the barn on his hourly rounds and was less than 100 yards away from the building when he saw a man drop a match into a manger filled with hay. He gave the alarm and then set out after the stranger and followed him through several cornfields to the bank of White river,
where all trace was lost.

Comfort for Dairy Cows Essential to Greatest Profits

By P. H. CRANE, Dairy Department
Purdue University Agricultural Extension

Dairy Barn With King System of Ventilation. No Rain, Snow or Cold Winds for Cows Kept in Such a Barn. Purdue University Experiment Station Dairy Barn.

Among the many factors that have a direct influence upon the profits to be derived in the dairy business, the comfort of the cow is one of the most important. Every dairyman should recognize this fact and make an effort to provide comfortable quarters for his cows.

Good light and ventilation, and stalls with plenty of bedding, in a barn that shuts out the wind, rain and snow, are factors upon which the comfort of the cow depends. The construction of the barn is very important, but it is not imperative that a new barn be built in order that these features providing comfort be had. A little repairing and remodeling of the old barn in many cases is sufficient to enable a general farmer to change his old barn into a respectable dairy barn. It is very true that many things will not be ideal, as would be desired in a new barn, when remodeling is practiced, but the expense involved must be considered when the general farmer fits himself to care for a limited number of dairy cows. The old barn that has great cracks in the weatherboarding, with occasional boards and doors torn off,
should receive attention before winter
weather begins.

The cold wind or draft that strikes
the cow makes her uncomfortable and robs, from the portion of feed intended for milk production, sufficient quantities to keep up the body temperature against the cold wind that whistles through the cracks in the weather boarding. This is expensive business when feeds are as high as they are sure to be this winter.

When the barn is properly repaired,
making it tight on all sides, the problems of light and ventilation must be met. The matter of light should not be difficult, although such would seem to be the case if we judge from the lack of provision for this necessity in the majority of barns throughout the country. A window about 2x4 feet or one of equal area should be provided for every two cows. This is important not only because sunlight is a powerful germicide, but also because the attendant is enabled to do his work more easily and see when the barn is clean.

The problem of ventilation is a little more serious than that of light, as the installation of one of the most efficient methods of ventilation, the King system, requires an expenditure of more or less money. It should, as a rule, be put into a new barn, and in many instances it is good policy to install this system in old barns. The system provides for a constant change of air, the fresh air entering the barn near the ceiling through ducts that have their exterior opening near the foundation, marked by the figure 3 in the accompanying illustration. There are a number of these on all sides of the building to provide fresh air, while the foul air is allowed to pass off through larger shafts marked by the figure 2, which have their opening, for the entrance of the foul air to the shaft, near the floor and the outlet at the top of the barn, marked by the figure 1. The King system is a very satisfactory system of ventilation, but must be properly installed if good results are to be expected. There are other systems that are not so efficient or expensive which are often wisely used in remodeled barns. The window that is so constructed as to drop in at the top, a few inches from the casing, and having pieces extending out from the casing on both sides of the window, give very good satisfaction when used properly. They allow the air to circulate through the barn in such a manner that the cold air is directed toward the ceiling by the position and construction of the window. They must be opened and closed properly according to the directions from which the wind comes if good ventilation, without draught, is desired.

The comfort of the cow depends,
too, upon the character of the stall she occupies. This stall should be of such a character that she can not only be comfortable, but also keep clean. A stanchion that permits a cow of the maximum freedom and still holds her in the proper relation to the gutter, back of her, is desirable.
With such a stall, well bedded, the cow will usually be comfortable and, if other conditions are right, yield a profit.

It would evidently have been $5 in the pocket of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., if he had never been born.

These Ohio legislative grafters seem to be of the kind that can resist everything but temptation.

We had expected to subscribe for coal and groceries for the indigent holder of stock in the dissolved Standard Oil Co., but it now looks as if they would get through the winter unaided.

If President Taft will discuss on his trip the great question whether New York or Chicago will get the National pennant, the people will listen to him gladly.

Father Ryan of a Boston church criticised tight skirts, puffs and cosmetics Sunday. Why does he not attack evils that might be remedied like murder or arson?

It is said that the circuit judges made 62 errors on the Harriman merger suit. How in thunder do they expect to get a good fielding average?

rescued with difficulty. Although cleanliness is next to godliness, he should wait next time until he reaches his own bath room.

Beattie says that with another trial before an up-to-date jury he will yet be acquitted. But the community would rather take a jury with whiskers than one with lenient views about family relations.

Although Col. Astor showed his friendly regard for the clerical profession by a willingness to pay down $1,000 to get married, the ungrateful ministers keep right on denouncing his nuptials.

"Getting right down to brass tacks, no one would rather see 'Our Jim' shy his castor in the congressional ring than would the progressives of the Sixth district. It would be an immortal cinch for them."

Or in the words of Rudolph Leeds, the above being taken from the Indianapolis Sun, the Sixth district is a veritable bee hive for insurgents. He may find that he has had a bum tip when the cloud has rolled away after the next election. And besides, when he speaks of the candidacy of the local statesman in such a manner as in the above paragraph—inviting him into the fight so that he may be defeated—it sounds mighty good. He must fear him.

EDITORIALETTES.

It's a safe bet that that fellow who was greeted with a load of buckshot when he tried to rob a hen coop the other night is taking his meals off the mantle piece—that is if he has one.

"Miles Tucks Tail and Crawfishes" is a very appropriate newspaper heading in the Shelbyville Republican over the story relating the recent flipflop of George W. Miles, State fish and game commissioner.

Albert Bright has just returned from Alabama, a "dry" State, where he had been loading steamships, to empty a few schooners.

"If a robber broke into the cellar would the coal shut?" asked an interested householder this morning after visiting the lower regions of the house.

"No," replied a smart neighbor who heard the question, "but the kindling wood."

Greensburg or bust is the motto.

You can almost hear the horses' hoofs in the distance, the horse show seems so certain.

Now's the chance for somebody to break into print by predicting a "long cold winter."

We admire that man who appeared on the streets today wearing his straw hat, kid gloves and last winter's overcoat.

They say that there is one Rushville soprano who shuts her eyes when she sings which leads us to presume that she goes so high it makes her dizzy.

PLAN A HEARTY WELCOM FOR JIM

Henry County Republicans and Democrats Alike Will Honor Vice-President.

C. S. HERNLY ARRANGED IT

Meeting of Citizens Will be Called to Perfect Plans For Entertainment There.

Arrangements for the entertainment of James Schoolcraft Sherman, vice-president of the United States, when he visits New Castle next month will be taken up the latter part of this week or the first of next, says the New Castle Courier. A meeting of citizens will be called and plans perfected for a royal welcome to the nation's vice-executive.

The plan to have the vice-president visit New Castle was made last week by C. S. Hernly, when he learned that Sherman was to be the guest of James E. Watson, former congressman. He took up the matter with Mr. Watson and completed the arrangements. Mr. Hernly is out of the city, but will return the latter part of the week.

It is planned to hold a monster picnic of the "Nip and Tuck" variety in honor of Mr. Sherman. The place and other similar arrangements are yet to be made. Some special form of entertainment will also be provided in addition to the picnic dinner and program of speeches.

The news that Mr. Sherman would visit the city was received here with delight. Republicans and Democrats will join in the effort to welcome him and assist in his entertainment while he is in the city.

COLUMBUS PAPER HAS SUCCEMDED

The Republican of That City Has "Dafydils" on the First Page Every Day.

FOOLISHNESS IS EXPLAINED

The Columbus Republican has succumbed to the "Dafydils." It is using a "Dafydil" on the front page every day, making them about local conditions. The Republican, in announcing the first nonsensical reading matter, says:

Since "Dafydils" became popular country newspapers have begun the practice of inventing some of these foolish sayings for themselves. The Rushville Republican has a Dafydil every day. The plan is simple. First there is an elaborate introduction, which has nothing to do with the Dafydil itself. The Dafydil proper is an idiotic remark by which a noun—either common or proper, is made to do the work of a verb. The idocy is then complete, save a last remark which must be as far from the general subject as possible. The original Dafydil man usually closes his remarks with "Quick, Watson, the needle!" Lie Down, Fido, you are all wet;" "Fireman, save my child," or something also equally fetching.

"WHEN DREAMS COME TRUE."

Columbus Republican: When it comes to solving riddles Chief of Police Stanley J. Cooper has Sherlock Holmes, Hawkshaw, Craig Kennedy, Silk Sock Sam the Sleek Sleuth and other famous detectives, backed entirely off the board. Chief Cooper just dreams the answer and then works out his dreams. SOCIETY NEWS

Mrs. Hillary Hayden was hostess for the Wednesday Afternoon Bridge Whist club yesterday.

The wedding of Miss Mary Jane Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Gray, living northeast of the city, and Lewis R. Bishop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Bishop of the same township, will take place at the Gray home this evening at eight o'clock; the ceremony to be performed by the Rev. Cyrus Yocum of this city. One hundred guests are expected to attend.

The recital given by the pupils of Miss Alice G. Alexander of Fairview at the country residence of Mr. and Mrs. Rolla E. Zorne near Gings, was the biggest social event which has been held in Union township for some time. There were about three hundred invited guests and the lawn in front of the beautiful country home was illuminated with Japanese lanterns.

The recital was spoken of by Prof. Likes of Connersville, who furnished the instruments for the occasion, that it was the best recital of its sort that he ever heard.

The following young people, all junior and senior pupils of Miss Alexander, took part: The Misses Lura Bowen, Elsie Abernathy, Lillie Lunsford, Ethel Newhouse, Clara Rees, Delephene Rees, Bessie Freer, Hazel Mohler, Lea Caldwell, Edna Rich, Blanche Davis, Edna Ruff, Vera Rees, Doris Beher, Grace Clifton, Merle Ging, Fern Jones, Dorothy Zorne, Elsie Caldwell, Bernice Hammond, Sylvia Mullen, Maude Jones, Hazel Kiser, Ozella Clifton and Goldie Grubbs, and Orville Freer, Loys Reese and Russell Reese.

Mrs. Martha Cook, better known to her numerous friends as "Grandmother" Cook celebrated joyously her ninetieth birthday anniversary at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lon Havens, 637 North Main street, today, surrounded by her friends and relatives. Mrs. Cook passed her four-score-and-a-half milestone today as happily as she ever did any other birthday in her life. The honor shown the aged and much respected woman today was sufficient evidence of the high esteem in which she is held by the community. She is loved alike by all who have had the pleasure of having her acquaintance and the influence of her sweet old age has been felt by all those who have come in contact with her during her long travels through this world.

As testimony of their appreciation of her worth, over a hundred of her friends literally showered her with roses and other kinds of flowers. The Havens home was converted into a veritable bower of roses by the many gifts she received as remembrances from her friends. Ninety friends sent her a bouquet of ninety roses, a rose to represent each year of her fruitful life. The bunch of roses bore that familiar inscription from Riley, "For the world is full of roses and the roses full of dew and the dew is full of Heavenly love that drips for me and you." Many other friends remembered her with flowers.

The dining room at the Havens home was beautiful in green and white. Ninety little candles adorned the walls, one to represent each year. Mrs. Cook is the widow of the late Thomas Cook. She has two daughters, Mrs. Havens of this city and Mrs. Gregg of Indianapolis. Mrs. Ella Bundy, who recently died in Spiceland was also her daughter.

AMUSEMENTS

The Portola will have two comedy pictures tonight. The first is a Vitagraph, "The Woes of a Wealthy Widow." The story is very amusing and the situations are said to be very funny. The second picture is a Lubin, "Always a Way." It is equally as good as the first.

The Palace will have the usual change of program tonight showing as the first film a Kalem comedy, "Hubby's Day at Home." The picture tells of a strenuous day put in by the "old man" and is said to be a very novel picture. The other is a Selig comedy of Indian life entitled, "The White Medicine Man."

With this perfect strop anyone can make their safety razor blades last 10 times as long.

By its use one set of 50c blades lasts as long as 20 sets costing $5. Even new blades will shave 100% better when put on this strop before using. It's mechanically perfect—just stick the razor blade in the slot and pull the strop back and forth by the rings (see cut). No experience necessary. In a twinkling your razor is sharpened with mechanical precision. Even an inexperienced youth can't fail to get a perfect cutting edge equal to that produced by the most experienced barber you know. You'll never enjoy a shave—you'll never really know what a safety razor ought to be until you put your blades on this strop. It's a big, 2-inch wide, soft kangaroo strop, with a full 14-inch sweep, which sharpens the razor in quarter the time, as it has an actual sharpening surface 50% greater than the old-fashioned kind.

This strop sharpens wafer blades and hollow ground blades with the same perfect edge. It is a regular $2 value. But we shall sell it for only 98c

Auto Styles for 1912 Big Mystery

What will be the popular style of automobile for the year 1912? This is a question which a great many persons are asking themselves. Prospective buyers of machines are pondering over the question and if the manufacturers have made up their minds they are keeping mighty still about it. They are making sure that the buyers do not get "next." Just what the most popular style will be is a matter that local dealers avoid saying and when asked pointedly what they will be, say that they do not know at this time.

The manufacture of automobiles has become one of the best recognized industries of the commercial world and every year adds to the number of manufacturing concerns in the country.

Not only are the makers of bodies and assemblers working hard on plans for the styles for the coming season, but all manufacturers of parts are quite busy as well. The engineering department of the auto works is the busiest department of the factory.

Since the advent of the automobile there has been what might be termed style in automobiles, just as there are styles in millinery, women's gowns and men's wearing apparel. From the time of the little lightweight affair of 1900 right up to the present day torpedo, there have been varying styles of cars and so characteristic of their time of production has each of these been that it would be fairly easy for one connected with the industry to determine in just what year each was built by a brief study of the lines. No manufacturer in all this time has produced a car so entirely different from the prevailing styles of the time as to make it distinctive. In fact, the instant anything of an individual or striking character was produced other manufacturers rushed to produce along the same general lines, with the result that each year's automobile has had some certain type of body associated with it.

In the early stages of automobile construction, for example there was the little lightweight car with the curved wheels or straight leather dash and metal of wire spokes. This was the accepted type of the time. But as the efficiency of the automobile was proved and as it came into more general use the tendency turned toward bigger cars with big, high backs and curved bodies, and what were then called artillery wheels seemed to be desired.

What the public seemed to want most, however, was a lot of car, everything as showy as possible, and this alone seemed to be the real desire. Manufacturers, anxious to please, answered the call, and the result was the production of big cars with high-backed tonneaus that would look as compared to the smooth racy torpedo of today, as an ice wagon to a pony cart.

It was the foreseeing of desires that caused a great many builders to manufacture cars along these lines that year. Needless to say it was quickly accepted, and so hearty was the reception accorded and so anxious was the public to receive it that every manufacturer of any note in this country is today manufacturing a torpedo model.

Since the first of this style was sent out the desire for straight line and low-hung bodies has grown, until it is today the most popular style of body made.

Many reasons can be assigned for the immense popularity accorded it, all of which are deserved, and any motorist who has ever used a torpedo model to any extent will readily admit.

The long, low-hung car is easy of access, and while it may not be so much more easily on the road than the touring car, it has the appearance of being so. Then too, the torpedo looks strong and powerful, as though it were capable of making good speed. The wind resistance of the torpedo body is no doubt somewhat less than of the touring car, the enclosed body, too making some slight difference in the wind resistance, but this is hardly the reason for the style of body.

Not only do the torpedo bodies lessen wind resistance and make more clean the inner compartments of the car, but reduce to a great extent the tendency to skid and "turn turtle" when sharp curves are rounded. The "underslung" model is the most pronounced type of the low-hung car and is said to take curves at a speed the high built car of former days was unable to accomplish.

It is simply a creation to meet what was the growing desire for the straight line body. Neither can there be any denying the fact that the tendency is toward straight lines among the users, and therefore among manufacturers. It is certain that the day of the big, clumsy car, a lot for the money, is of the past.

Runabouts and roadsters are being built to conform to the present day tendencies, and the two, four, five and six-passenger cars are being built lower and on straight lines to satisfy the desire. It is but the medium-sized car of power and efficiency.

Town Development

Rushville people who have visited Traverse City, Mich., remembers with pleasure a neat little building at the foot of Cass street, fronting on Grand Traverse bay, which is styled "Bureau of Information—Board of Trade." It is so constructed that a forty-piece band frequently gives concerts on the roof. It is neatly constructed and one of the first in this part of the country to be used exclusively for publicity matters. In a recent number of the American Lumberman, M. B. Holley of the Traverse City board of trade adds:

"On deciding to employ a paid secretary the board also arranged with a large advertising agency to carry on a most systematic advertising campaign in thirty-three of the largest papers in ten different states in the south and southwest, pooling its funds with four of the largest railroads having interests in this part of the state.

"The board issued 5,000 summer booklets describing all the resorts in this region and 8,000 fruit and agricultural booklets devoted to the exploiting of the fruit and farm lands in this and adjacent counties. As the inquiries came in for these booklets they were replied to with a personal letter, which was so unusual and so complete in detail that it attracted the attention of the inquirer and held him and brought the very best results.

"This bureau directs visitors to the private home in the city, to the nearby resorts, plans day trips for them, gives information concerning the railroads and steamboat lines, turns all inquiries for real estate over to those agents, all fruit land prospectors to the development bureau; carries on a free employment bureau that already has taken care of hundreds of applicants, looks after all board of trade matters and industrial propositions, handles all the booklets of all the railroads and boat lines in the country, resorts in this region, all advertising matter that is got out by those who are exploiting the lands in this part of the state, and answers hundreds of questions asked not only by the visitors but local people.

"It is the publicity headquarters of all this region. The board of trade is constantly being congratulated for this most progressive step so far in the advance of anything ever planned by such an organization. Here are a few statistics to prove the assertion:

"In the ten weeks that this work has been carried on there have been 504 inquiries from 44 different states, 5,412 summer and other booklets have been given out over the country or sent by mail to inquiries or the different railroads and steamboat lines; there have been 2,328 callers, 1,409 telephone calls have been answered, 904 letters written, 1,276 pieces of mail have been received, seventy-three positions have been filled through the free employment bureau, besides the thousands of questions that have been answered of which no account has been kept.

"It is the biggest and most successful advertising project that the board of trade ever has undertaken, and the results are so manifest that it will now become a permanent institution."

"We have now 318 members," says Mr. Holley, "divided into four different classes: A—business and professional men who pay $10 a year dues; B—traveling men and farmers, who pay $5; C—clerks and other wage earners, who pay $2 a year."

STARTLED THEM

Two South Bend City Officials Find They Are Not Citizens.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 14.—Two city officials, one of whom is controller, Patrick A. Joyce, present acting mayor of South Bend, have made the startling discovery they are not American citizens. The other is Policeman Samuel Derrent. Both men took out first naturalization papers years ago, but never appeared for final examination and secured their second papers.

The discovery was made in the St. Joseph circuit court, where the two officials were among the witnesses at the examination of sixty-three prospective citizens. Because Joyce and Derrent are not citizens themselves, John T. Neizgodski, cigar manufacturer and former member of the board of public safety, and Emil Schellenbeck, a saloon keeper, failed to get their naturalization papers.

Trail of the Serpent.

The popular novelist, about to tackle the last chapter of his latest romance, hesitated.

"By every principle of literary art," he reflected, "by every dictum of reason, common sense and logical sequence the hero should commit suicide and the heroine should die of a broken heart. But if I give the story a tragic ending it will mean a difference of $20,000 in the sales of the book."

So he went ahead and wound up the story just as you would have done it, gentle reader, if it had been up to you.—Chicago Tribune.

TREE PLANTING TIME HERE

Not many weeks ago it was suggested that the value of city property, both vacant and otherwise, could be enhanced in a profitable degree by the mowing of the lots and the removal of rubbish and unsightly growths. The season, or one of the seasons, is now near when the value of such property may be still further increased by the planting of shade trees.

A recent interview with John P. Brown, formerly of Connersville, and recognized as one of the highest authorities on tree culture in America, proved decidedly interesting. He spoke of the common hard maple as the finest shade tree in the world and of the better oaks as probably second. The latter grow more slowly, however, and are not quite so easily brought up into perfect development. These are but two, however, of several varieties of very good shade trees which can be found and obtained for little or nothing besides the labor of transplanting, in many strips of woodland in this county.

According to Mr. Brown one of the most important things of all in the transplanting of trees is to dig a hole big enough to hold the roots without bending or cramping them. This done, and nature does about all the rest. Those who are very particular as to the varieties of trees they set out will find the nurserymen fully prepared to supply their wants, and it is believed that before autumn is over this year many lots in Rushville which are shadeless now will be beautified by young trees, which, with proper care will grow and flourish, adding at once to the selling value and to the artistic worth of the property they adorn.

NOT FURTHERING WILSON'S BOOM

Charge That This Is Object of Conference Denied.

UNTRUE AND UNFAIR THEY SAY

Governors in Conference in New Jersey Denounce Comment Attributed to Michigan's Governor, Who is Alleged to Have Said That He Would Not Attend Meeting Because It Was a Part of the Wilson Publicity Plan.

Spring Lake, N. J., Sept. 14.—Observing the habits of a twelve-inch coast defense gun, twenty-seven governors with cotton in their ears, tipped onto the parapet of Ft. Hancock. They made the excursion to Sandy Hook after discussing employers' liability and workmen's compensation problems. It was the only topic programmed for discussion, and to the majority of the governors here it is regarded as the most important. Two addresses were made, one by Governor Marion E. Hay of Washington, the other by Governor Eugene Foss of Massachusetts, but several took part in the informal exchange of opinions. Both Governor Wilson of New Jersey and Governor Harmon had something to say, although Governor Harmon confined himself to reviewing briefly the progress of the workmen's compensation movement in Ohio.

Just before the conference started Governor Wilson's attention was called to a statement purporting to come from Governor Chase Osborn of Michigan, to the effect that he has not attended the conference because it was merely a gathering to boom Wilson for the Democratic nomination for president. Governor Wilson had nothing to say in reply, but ex-Governor Fort of New Jersey did what talking was necessary. It was he that got the conference for Spring Lake, said Governor Fort, and Governor Wilson had nothing to do with it. Moreover, he added, Governor Osborn wrote on Aug. 16 last and again on Aug. 30, that he was looking forward with pleasure to being here. All of the governors joined in saying that it was untrue and unfair to Mr. Wilson to hint that the Spring Lake conference was to be used to further Governor Wilson's candidacy.

Sentiment is sharply divided among the governors on the right of taking human life where death in agony is inevitable. None of the governors has had a case like that of the Shakers of Florida, where a dying woman was chloroformed to end her misery, before him for pardon, and because of the improbability that juries would convict in such a case, they do not expect to be called on to pass judgment. But if such a decision should confront them, most of them made it plain that a pardon would be granted.

MAINE PEOPLE UP IN THE AIR

Don't Know Whether They Are Wet or Dry.

A PERPLEXING SITUATION

Confusion of Reports Leaves the People of the Pine Tree State as Much in Doubt Today Over the Outcome of Monday's Election as They Were When the Polls Closed—Wets Again Claim Victory.

Portland, Me., Sept. 14.—Whether the prohibitory amendment is to be removed from the constitution, the people of Maine today are as far from knowing as they were the day before Monday's election. It is thought that all the returns will have been received at the office of Secretary of State Davis at Augusta today, but it may be several days before the result is made known. It has been still another day of surprises and complications, and the citizens of the Pine Tree state are worked to a frenzy of excitement. As yesterday gave the "drys" all the encouragement, so did today correspondingly elate the "wets."

It was announced by the Associated Press that with the returns in from all towns and with but comparatively few unverified the "drys" had won with a margin of 275 votes. The "wets," except a few optimistic leaders, had given up the fight and it seemed that the prohibitory amendment was in the constitution to stay for another year at least.

Suddenly a bomb burst and, strangely enough, it was thrown into the Prohibition camp by one of their allies, the Express-Advertiser, which on the face of returns copied by one of its representatives from town clerks' reports which had come into the office of Secretary Davis, predicted a victory for the "wets" by 546 majority.

QUICK JUSTICE DONE IN THIS MAN'S CASE

"Dogskin" Johnson Confesses Murder of Child.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 14.—Last evening John A. (Dogskin) Johnson pleaded guilty to the murder of Annie Lamberger, the seven-year-old child who was kidnapped from her bed and whose nude and ravished body was later found in a nearby lake. The man made a confession to the authorities, but the nature of this has so far not been given out.

Twenty-five minutes after Johnson called the turnkey in the county jail and told him he had decided to plead guilty Johnson was sentenced and was on his way to state prison for life.

Johnson was arrested last Saturday and released for lack of evidence. Monday night he was again arrested. Yesterday Johnson was in court and pleaded not guilty. At 5:35 in the evening he called the turnkey, notified him he wanted to get away from Madison because of a fear of lynching, and then the court proceedings were rushed and completed before more than twenty persons knew of the new turn of the case.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 14.—Four men were killed, three are dying and eleven more were badly injured in a collision between a freight and a work train on the Lake Erie & Pittsburgh railroad at 8 o'clock last evening. The wreck occurred half way between Franklin and Warren road. Three of the injured, all of whom are at St. Alexis hospital, will die, according to the surgeons.

The wreck was evidently due to a misunderstanding of signals, the work train backing from a siding directly in front of the freight, which was moving at high speed toward Cleveland. When the engine turned over a great cloud of escaping steam caught the men, who were planned down beneath the timbers of the wrecked cars. The men in the work cars had been working on an uncompleted section of the new belt line track.

Benjamin Tripp, known as Big Ben, whose home is in Toledo, was engineer of the freight train. He leaped through a window of his cab and beyond severe bruises, escaped unhurt. Frances E. Maloney, Toledo, fireman for Tripp, was thrown through the window of the cab, and after hurtling through the air a distance of thirty feet, alighted on a rock. He was not badly injured.

Mexico's Indemnity Fund Said to Have Been Lavishly Distributed.

Mexico City, Sept. 14.—The procurador general de justicia is continuing his investigations regarding the misappropriation of the funds which were voted by the government in indemnification of the losses sustained during the late revolution. Of the 14,000,000 pesos which were set aside in the national treasury for this purpose, only some 700,000 pesos are still unused, all the balance having already been disbursed.

Of the disbursements of the millions which have been made the procurador general finds that there have been no vouchers made in many cases, amounting in all to millions of pesos, to show on what account the money has been paid out, and it is alleged that a great deal of this money has been paid to ex-Maderistas as gratuities and for which they have rendered no service either to the revolutionary cause or the existing government.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Serious disturbances are reported from several sections of France as a result of the demonstrations against the high price of food.

The carelessness of a Washington capitol policeman, who lost the master key of the house office building, has just cost the government nearly $1,500 for new locks.

A special train bearing a load of the followers of Suarez to a demonstration which is to be held in Vera Cruz, Mexico, was stoned by a party of Maderistas and seventeen of the passengers were injured.

With the near approach of the anniversary of Mexico's independence reports come from many different parts of that country of alleged plans for revolutionary uprisings next Saturday, the day of the celebration.

The Nebraska Methodist conference adopted resolutions denouncing James Wilson, the secretary of agriculture, for accepting an offer to act as honorary president of the International Brewers' association, which meets in Chicago in October.

Congressman Thomas W. Hardwick of Georgia, chairman of the congressional committee investigating the actions of the alleged sugar trust, says the trust is not to blame for the price of sugar advancing, but that it is due to lack of production.

The metropolitan of Paris has ordered a new inquiry into the circumstances preceding the ecclesiastical annulment of Emma Eames's marriage to Julian Story, which made possible her recent marriage by a Roman Catholic clergyman to Emilio De Gortza.

SEE SCHEME TO DEFEAT F. GRAY

Sixth District Politicians Scent Plot to Beat Present Congressman in Hack Announcement.

OTHER POLITICAL GOSSIP

Republican District Chairman Says

Watson is Strongest Indiana Republican—He's For Him.

Back of the announcement made yesterday by Charles A. Hack of Shelbyville, former prosecutor of Rush-Shelby circuit, that he will be a candidate for the Democratic district chairmanship of the Sixth—the "old Burnt" district—is said to be a plot so deep and intricate in its makeup that a modern Sherlock Holmes would be completely baffled by its awful mysteriousness, says a Shelbyville dispatch. That his candidacy will eventually culminate in the crystallization of the sentiment against Representative Finly Gray, is the belief of wisecracks, who assert they are in close touch with district politics.

It is the plan of the Hack supporters to obtain his election at all hazards. While all the plans of his friends have not come to the surface, it is learned that Hack has been pledged the support of all the counties in this part of the district. Hack is an astute politician.

Hack has the backing of a coterie of politicians who long ago made their influence felt in State politics.

In the Richmond convention that nominated Gray, Shelby county cast eighteen of its twenty-three votes for Leonidas H. Mull of Manilla. Mull also had the solid backing of Decatur county, and his home county of Rush, besides a few scattering votes from other counties in the district.

There are a great many Democrats in this part of the Sixth district who will tell you that Representative Gray could not be elected even were he to succeed in obtaining the nomination. They say his actions at the extra session of Congress were not those of a Democrat of the true-blue variety and openly charge that he played into the hands of the Republican voters of the district. The district formerly was nominally Republican by a majority of about 4,000. James E. Watson skimmed through with a greatly reduced plurality six years ago and the Republican plurality did not materially increase when Judge W. O. Barnard was elected. Gray was elected by about 1,500 plurality.

It is said to be the intention to hold the Democratic convention at Rushville, in the home county of Lon Mull, who was defeated by Gray for the nomination through a combination Gray made with Thomas H. Kuhn of Wayne county, Mull's strongest rival. If the convention is held at Rushville it will be in the heart of the section that is strongly opposed to Gray, and a repetition of the scene at the Richmond convention may be looked for. It was charged that the Richmond convention hall was packed with anti-Mull followers in 1910, when Gray was made the nominee.

Elmer Bassett, Republican district

chairman, of Shelbyville, is quietly viewing the remarkable situation in the ranks of the opposition with a smile on his face that is gradually growing broader. Mr. Bassett said today that he believed the district would return to the Republican fold in the next campaign, and that an old-time Republican majority would be registered.

When asked regarding the prospective candidacy of James E. Watson of Rushville for the congressional nomination on the Republican ticket, Mr. Bassett said he was for Watson for anything the Rushville man might seek. "Watson is the strongest man in the Republican party in Indiana today," asserted Mr. Bassett. "I believe he could be elected easily. I am for him for anything he wants."

to see his son that he asked a hundred questions almost in one breath and then he remembered the boy's mother and immediately wired her the glad news.

The Shroyers live on a large farm near Urbana and the boy with his sister attended high school there, going home every Friday evening. Sometime last Friday Fred packed his clothes in two suit cases and left the city. He landed here Saturday evening and registered at the Western hotel as Frank Ward. Monday he secured work at one of the local factories and prepared to make this city his home. He deposited $250 in the bank and was taking life easy.

The boy is only 15 years old and is an exceedingly bright lad. When seen today he said: "The only reason I had for leaving home was a desire to earn some money for myself. You see, I never wanted for a thing and father always gave me so much money that I got ashamed and wanted to earn my own. Why did I come here? Well, I always heard this was a good place so I decided on Rushville. The boys at the factory accused me of being a runaway from some reform school, but I never gave them any satisfaction. Yes, I got my time this morning and the boss said he was sorry to see me go. I have a scholarship to the Eastern Illinois Normal College at Charleston and will go back home to enter the school. Father said I could stay here if I wanted to, but I guess I will please him better if I return home." Mr. Schroyer and son left this afternoon for Urbana.
